The Oconee Area Resource Council (OARC) is proud to serve as Oconee County's local affiliate of Dolly Parton's Imagination Library (DPIL). The Imagination Library is committed to inspiring a love of reading by gifting books to children birth to age five. Funding for Oconee County is shared by DPIL and local community partners through OARC. This program currently serves over 1,100 children in Oconee County.

How does the program work?

Each month a new, carefully selected, high-quality book is mailed in your child's name directly to your home. Best of all, it's a free gift to your child with no cost or obligation to your family.

Who is eligible?

Children under age five who reside in Oconee County, Georgia.

How do children sign up?

Submit an official registration form found online at www.imaginationlibrary.com.

When do books arrive?

Eight to ten weeks after registration has been received and will continue until your child turns five or moves out of the coverage area.

What are my responsibilities?

Notify OARC by emailing shannon@oconeeconnection.org if your address changes, to ensure uninterrupted delivery of books.

What's next?

Read with your child and have fun!
